Hadhramaut, formerly part of the Eastern Aden Protectorate, is now the largest of the seventeen provinces of the Republic of Yemen. It remains one of the most underdeveloped regions of the world and greatly in need of help.

The idea of forming "Friends of Hadhramaut" came as a result of a visit to the area by Sultana al-Qu'aiti and Brian Fyfield-Shayler, as part of an expedition organised in 1996 by the British Yemeni Society.

The trust, registered with the Charity Commissioners of Great Britain, aims to promote philanthropic, educational and medical links between the people of Hadhramaut and overseas, bringing the needs of the people to the attention of those who may be in the best position to help. The trust aims to raise living standards, individually and collectively, relieving poverty wherever it can.

We favour community-based projects and self-help developments, using, as far as possible, local resources, indigenous materials and appropriate technology.

The work of "Friends of Hadhramaut" is purely humanitarian and strictly non-political. Though based in the United Kingdom it has been an international effort from the outset. The trustees draw on the goodwill of well-wishers around the world.

New "Friends" are asked to send £30 / €35, which will place you on the mailing list (for newsletters) and in our "Directory of Friends". Additional donations of any size will, of course, be very welcome and will be acknowledged.
